Meanwhile the Fosters were imparting more of the background of their business to their successors. For the present, at least, the brothers meant to retain an interest in the shop, even after they had given up the active management; and they sometimes thought of setting up a separate establishment as bankers. The separation of the business--the introduction of their shopmen to the distant manufacturers who furnished their goods (in those days the system of travellers was not so widely organized as it is at present)--all these steps were in gradual progress; and already Philip saw himself in imagination in the dignified position of joint master of the principal shop in Monkshaven, with Sylvia installed as his wife, with certainly a silk gown, and possibly a gig, at her disposal. In all Philips visions of future prosperity it was Sylvia who...
